Bombay would love to be a scientist or a chef when he grows up.

Bombay was 3 when the police brought him to El Sauzal. His mother was a migrant worker who left him in a "cuarteria", which is a cheap motel for field workers. Months later, Bombay's mom came back to get him, but when she was told what she needed to do to get him, she hasn't tried to contact him. After living most of his life at El Sauzal, Bombay has grown into a cheerful and energetic young man!
